Every 19 Seconds A Car Is Stolen ...

One car is stolen every 19 seconds in the U.S. That's less time than it takes most people to unlock their car, put their seat belt on and start the engine. Law enforcement agencies endorse the use of etching and have seen firsthand the positive results.

Many cars are stolen for parts. Professional thieves shy away from a vehicle that has an identification number etched into it.

"Chop Shops," which strip and resell parts, are not interested in having identifiable evidence in their possession and want to avoid the risk of disposing of hundreds of pounds of glass or body panels. Most thieves decide that the effort and money required to replace all of the etched parts are too costly.

Keep Your Car From Being Just Another Statistic.

With EtchGARD the vehicle is permanently "etched" with identification numbers that are registered in a national database and can be traced by law enforcement officials to determine the ownership of the vehicle in question.

The insurance industry recognizes the astounding statistics of stolen cars recovered because of etching. Some insurance companies offer discounts to etched vehicles as an incentive to take advantage of this increased recovery rate.
